EVERLY-STEELE-DAY HOUSE

60 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE

Number 60 Pennsylvania Avenue fronts the northeast side of that street about halfway between The Forks and Union Street in Westminster. The house, beneath its steep walls of green paint, betrays two distinct periods of building.

The original house, probably built around the middle of the 19th century, was a typical house of the region with its two, two-story-tall gable-roofed sections, which are the requisite dimensions. A good deal of this house still remains, although much of the flavor of the house is given by the halfcentury later additions, notably the tower, and attic gable, and doubling of the rear L. Thus, today, the principal facade is predominantly the turn of the century. The facade is dominated by a three story rounded conical-roof tower which is covered with cusped shingles. Three double-hung sash windows paned oneover-one are found on each floor of the tower below the wooden shingle roof. On line with this roof is the contemporaneous attic gable which is sheathed in the same material and has a central 1/1 window. Elements of this facade that date from before the 20th century include the black rolled tin of the roof, the green clapboarding, and the remaining two bays: a 1/1 second story window to the northwest directly between the gable and the entrance door, and the door itself.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Number 60 Pennsylvania Avenue fronts the northeast side of that street about halfway between The Forks and Union Street in Westminster. The house, beneath its steep walls of green paint, betrays two distinct periods of building.

The original house, probably built around the middle of the 19th century, was a typical house of the region with its two, two-story-tall gable-roofed sections, which are the requisite dimensions. A good deal of this house still remains. although much of the flavor of the house is given by the halfcentury later additions, notably the tower, and attic gable, and doubling of the rear L. Thus, today, the principal facade is predominantly the turn of the century. The facade is dominated by a three story rounded conical-roof tower which is covered with cusped shingles. Three double-hung sash windows paned oneover-one are found on each floor of the tower below the wooden shingle roof. On line with this roof is the contemporaneous attic gable which is sheathed in the same material and has a central 1/1 window. Elements of this facade that date from before the 20th century include the black rolled tin of the roof, the green clapboarding, and the remaining two bays: a 1/1 second story window to the northwest directly between the gable and the entrance door, and the door itself. The door, within its dark simple surround, is a modern glass and panelled door. A small flat-capped interior chimney flue rises at the gable's peak near the tower. This facade is blind.

The original L was about the same size as the original front section, but, as noticed, has since been doubled. The corbel-capped chimney rising at the gables roof peak marks, most likely, the end of the old and the beginning of the new. The end of the L is marked by a two-tier shed roofed simply railed porch which is connected by means of wooden fire escapes. One simple door per floor leads from the L to the porch. Lattice work covers the first four feet of the porch, lattice work which is very much in keeping with the Victorian/Edwardian character of the house. The open part of the L has three modern glass and aluminum storm windows on the second floor (two on the old section one on the new) and, in the new floor length shed roofed one story addition below, three small 6 light casement windows are randomly placed.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

As was hinted in question 7, the main significance of 60 Pennsylvania Avenue is in seeing how two or three distinct generations are planted together. Here they blend together very well. There is a sympathetic use of materials, of forms, of scale, and of cosmetics. The main addition to the principal facade, the tower and the attic gable, seem to grow fairly naturally from the 50 year older original section. These additions are angular enough to blend with the older section, yet are rounded enough to blend together and to be distinct. Various owners have wisely coordinated surface color and covering. The rear doubling of the L is perhaps less satisfactory, although it is by no means jarring. The roof line was kept the same, as were the clapboarding lines. Window placement could have been more congruous but that is a small point. All in all, the building shows that additions need not be jarring that alterations can be made to older fabric, lessons which could well be studied today.

The first mention of the lot in the title books occurs on March 11, 1847 when Jacob Mathias and Joshua Smith, executors of Peter Schoemaker, sold a two acre parcel to Elizabeth Everly for $236.11 (Carrolí County Deed Book 16, Page 134). It was probably Ms. Everly who built the first part of the house; it was certainly Ms. Everly who sold the place to Eziah Crowl for $1400 on February 10, 1867 (34/108). The trustees for the Crowl creditors, including Charles T. Reifsnider, sold the house for $1475 to Elizabeth S. Steele and husband on March 24, 1900 (90/289). The 1881 City Directory lists Ms. Crowl as living at 64 Pennsylvania Avenue. Elizabeth Steele died in 1938 leaving the land to her daughters, Grace Steele Day and Ethel E. Steele, the former buying out the later in 1938. Martin Steele Day, Grace's son, inherited the place when his mother died and sold to Jeffrey L. Barnes on August 11, 1967 (425/420). is all but certain that the Steele-Day family added the tower, dormer, and doubled the L. Jeffrey Barnes sold the house to the present owner on March 31, 1971.
